

June 2017 - Lindsay L.

When you grow up in a household where both parents are teachers, you learn a thing or two. Lindsay would probably even argue, you learn a thing or two every day. Everything she prides in herself, she acknowledges it was all instilled by her parents. From keeping an active lifestyle, to her love for teaching, or her strong work ethic, she says she learned it all from her parents. "Both my parents loved what they did. My dad still teaches to this day, and my mom has taught every grade level, homeward-bound classes for students with needs, and even classes for those in jail. You really have to have a passion for teaching to do all that." Lindsay finds their passion and dedication to their profession inspiring.

A love for teaching definitely rubbed off on Lindsay, who says her favorite part as Assistant Manager is training. "I truly enjoy the staff I work with, as well as those I work for. But my favorite thing about my position is being a part of the MIT (Manager in Training) program here at the Brewingz-Pearland location." Being with Brewingz for 5 years, Lindsay feels accomplished, but admits she still has a lot to learn, "I feel I get better each year, and that's my goal. I also feel I'm at the perfect place(Pearland) to continue my education and growth with Brewingz. It's a great atmosphere to learn."

In her free time Lindsay dedicates most her time to her family. She was raised in a family oriented environment, and has carried these values into her own household. She remains close to her parents, she is grateful for the closeness and loyalty she shares with her in-laws, and cherishes her time with her daughter. Every morning Lindsay makes her daughter's favorite – pancakes. In those rare moments when a dedicated mother finds time for herself, she loves to work out, "I'll go to the gym, or if it's a pretty day you'll find me outside!" Whether she is at home or at work, Lindsay puts forth 100%.
